Use different strategies and tactics to complete all the puzzles! Different levels represent different obstacles, use your creativity and predict how physics will work together. I don't have much to comment on.. I've had a lot of games through Lion Studios, and these developers can be a little lazy, but they make really good games. This review will usually be short, as the title says, it's fun, but nothing that stands out. I'm an artist (certainly not a professional, but an artist), and I really like drawing games because they question my art style. The only reason I gave him only 4 stars is that it's fun, but for the game to be really worth 5 stars in my book, it must have something to it. Something that stands out and makes it fun and interesting, however, while this game has a very creative premise, there's that pop feature that blows it out of the park. Now, I can ask too much from a few game developers who are usually lazy, but I feel like this game is kind of missing. Something feels empty, if that's the right word. I think they need to add a special little feature that just add a little more personality to it. Because, at the moment, the looks and even the ads are the same- the same as all those recurring brain games that I've seen over and over again. I hope they will have an update! And anyone who complains about advertising clearly has never had a free game before. But I definitely recommend to anyone who is interested! Get this woman out of every dangerous situation Give this poor crocodile a few water puzzles and snails, all in one classic candy crush game, now with gummies shoot colorful balls and make them all explode think outside the box to solve these unsolved secrets I'm a fan of blood throwing MMORPGS.
